Susan B Anthony discovered at an early age the prejudice and discrimination that women were suffering and was inspired to take a stand for women's rights. She formed many organizations dedicated to women's rights. Her work paved the way for the passage of the 19th amendment to the Constitution (right to vote not abridged by gender), which occurred in 1920.

Chief Justice John Marshall was a jurist and statesman who shaped American constitutional law. Marshall established the exercise of judicial review, which gives the Supreme Court the power to strike down laws made by other branches of government that are "repugnant" to the Constitution.

Robert E Lee is one of the greatest military minds in United States history. At the onset of the Civil War, President Abraham Lincoln offered General Lee command of all the Union armies. However, because of Lee's loyalty to his home state of Virginia, he joined the Confederacy.

Paul Revere was the leader of the patriot group known as The Sons of Liberty that participated in the Boston Tea Party. Revere is famous for his ride from Charlestown to Lexington and then on to Concord on April 18, 1775 to warn that the British were coming. Revere was also an outstanding silversmith, engraver, and the first American to discover how to roll sheet copper.

In 1888, Harrison ran as a Republican against incumbent Democratic President Cleveland. Harrison's campaign revolved around the issue of protective tariffs. Harrison received 90,000 fewer popular votes than Cleveland but won the Electoral College 233 to 168 – thus winning the election. Harrison was responsible for the Hawaii Islands being annexed to the United States.

Roosevelt's term as president ended on March 4, 1909. At 50 years, he was America's youngest former president. Roosevelt was anxious to get out of Washington. The Smithsonian was building the Museum of Natural History. Roosevelt, ever a fan of natural history, decided to go on an African safari sponsored by the museum to collect specimens for its first exhibits.

On December 2, 1823, President James Monroe introduced the foreign policy doctrine that bears his name. Monroe was the last President of the "Virginia Dynasty" (four out of the first five Presidents were from Virginia). He participated in the ratification of the United States Constitution, negotiated the Louisiana Purchase, and implemented the Missouri Compromise.

Abraham Lincoln won the Presidential election of 1860. By the time he took office on March 4, 1861, seven states had seceded from the Union and formed the Confederate States of America. Four more states would soon follow. President Lincoln chose not to force the states to rejoin the Union – until Confederate artillery fired on Fort Sumter, in Charleston Harbor.

At the Second Continental Congress, which opened on May 10, 1775, Washington was elected commander in chief. He had not sought the position, but accepted the responsibility. General Washington became a hero of the people. Washington's bravery and patience held the American army together, most notably during the hardships of the winter of 1777, spent in Valley Forge.
