UPDATE SERIES

On April 16, 1917, Aaron Judge and Greg Bird combined to hit for the cycle in a 9-3 victory over St. Louis. It's no wonder the Yankees are giddy about what these two might accomplish going forward. Two years ago, as a 22-year-old rookie, Bird smashed 11 homers in just 46 games. The hulking, humble Judge required only 38 contests to belt his first 15 of '17.

Aaron became one of the symbols of the new, younger Yankees in 2016, when he debuted in August as the only player in AL history to homer in the initial at-bat of each of his first two games. Then, in his third contest, Aaron drove in the only run of a win over Toronto. "He's got a chance to be an absolute animal!" enthused fellow rookie Tyler Austin.

AARON JUDGE
OUTFIELDER

After setting a rookie record with 52 home runs in 2017, it would seem Judge has no ceiling. Even a single at-bat might make history. "He is just a humongous human being that has out-of-this-world power," says former teammate Chase Headley. "Five hundred fifty feet is not out of the question."

MLB DEBUT: 2-FOR-4, HR, RBI

The word "monstrous" applied all the way around at Yankee Stadium when Judge made his MLB debut on August 13, 2016. The 6-foot-7, 275-pound behemoth unleashed a violent swing on the first pitch he saw from a Tampa Bay hurler, and rocketed a home run off the railing above the center-field sports bar.
