PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION

The United States 2¢ Panama-Pacific Exposition stamp, issued in 1913 with gauge 12 perforations and singleline watermark, has a very interesting color variety.

It exists in a carmine-lake shade, Scott 398a, as opposed to the garden-variety carmine color.

The darker, carmine-lake shade resembles the color of the postage due stamps that were being used at the time.

According to Max Johl in his landmark book UNITED STATES COMMEMORATIVE STAMPS OF THE 20TH CENTURY, only 40 examples were found in a San Francisco post office from what had been a pane of 70.

Johl was hard pressed to believe that this was all that were printed, but the shade variety has stood the test of time as evidenced by its current Scott catalog value of $1,000 for unused, hinged and $1,800 for mint, never-hinged. (as of July, 2003)

I purchased this carmine-lake shade, Scott 398a, mint and never hinged from Dale Enterprises Inc.
