NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS

The "A" Series stamp has been issued to avoid any shortages in first-class postage stamps. It is to be used just as any other first-class stamp. The "A" stamp will continue indefinitely to be worth its assigned value.

Normally six months are required to prepare postage stamp designs, produce plates, print and distribute the billions of stamps needed for a change in the first-class letter rate. The required lead time for production and distribution was not available between determining the new rate and its implementation.
