Gentlemen:-

In talking with Mr. Smith several days since, I told him that there was likely a contract between Montague, Kent and myself concerning the matter he had in hand for us. I enclose herewith copy of the only contract that is likely in existence. This was furnished to me by Mr. Kent.

Yours very truly,

Gentlemen:-

We enclose herewith option as executed by Ludwig A. Beckerman et al, covering all the pine timber on 75 acres of land. Also option executed by J. E. Mann, covering all the pine timber on 81 acres of land, and option of Sarah J. Morris covering 118 acres of land, all of which we desire to exercise, and would, therefore, thank you to examine titles at your earliest convenience.

We are writing Ludwig A Beckerman today, and a copy of our letter is herewith enclosed.

Yours very truly,

My dearest Ben

Yours of the 23rd I received last night. Adele received the one you wrote her (dated 18th) some days ago, and a happier or prouder child you never saw. She begs that I will answer it to day, but as you may readily suppose I cannot have much to write about. I am not able to visit, and I really see no one but our own family from week to week.

Your Papa dines to day with Mr Ward, and looks at his Springfield crop. Adele has finished her little lessons, little they really are for she is not very fond of them, and I often let her off from a part. She dislikes spelling very much, it is her hardest lesson, and the one that keeps her longest. It is true she was learning to write, but as yet she only marks upon the slate.

Little Bepsey is pretty much the life of the house, she is very merry and engaging, and
